DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the check valves must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited.

3. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it exceeds 150 words.

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification fails to describe what the condensed water-discharging unit is and how it works. Therefore, one skilled in the art would be unable to make and/or use this invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rothman (U.S. Patent No. 1,798,760) in view of Murray (U.S. Patent No. 1,738,916). Rothman discloses a curling iron comprising an electrically operated steam generator (43), including a steam outlet port (45), and a condensed water port (51) with a check valve (52); a steam feeding tube (47) connected to the steam outlet port of the steam generator; a steam storing/heating dissipating tube (23), and a condensed water returning tube (51) see Figure 1 and 2. The curling iron comprises curling tongs, a handle (20), a main arm (13) connected to the handle, a sub-arm (12) hinged to the main arm, and a lever (20) connected to the sub-arm see Figure 1. Rothman does not disclose the condensed water inlet ports or the plurality of steam outlet ports connected to the steam generator. Murray teaches having a plurality of steam outlet ports connected to a steam generator see Figure 4. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the device of Rothman with condensed water inlet ports and have the condensed water returning tube connected to the steam generator via the condensed water inlet port in order to recycle the water to the generator. It would have been further obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time the invention was made to permit the steam generator of Rothman to contain a plurality of steam outlet ports and a plurality of condensed water inlet ports as taught by Murray in order to have more than one user attach a curling iron to the steam generator.
